SEBASTIAN MORNING JOINS REYNOLDS PLANTATION AS ASSISTANT TENNIS PRO

Greensboro, Ga. (May 21, 2007) – Tennis professional Sebastian Morning has joined the award-winning tennis program at Linger Longer Communities.

The Peter Burwash International assistant tennis pro will work with Reynolds Plantation Director of Tennis and 2000 PBI Instructor of the Year Dave Neuhart to provide world-class tennis instruction and services to Reynolds Plantation members. Reynolds Plantation contracts with PBI, the world's largest and most successful international tennis management firm, to provide an exemplary tennis program. In this program, Morning will help coordinate numerous summer camps, teach private lessons and assist in the management of the tennis program.

“Sabastian Morning is a wonderful addition to our tennis program,” Neuhart said. “He will be able to infuse enthusiasm and professionalism into the programs that have experienced a tremendous growth.”

That growth was in part prompted by the addition of state-of-the-art tennis facilities at The Lake Club. The eight new tennis courts at The Lake Club include four Har-Tru Hydro Courts and four traditional courts, with stadium seating, lighting for night play, the Dartfish video stroke analysis system and a computerized ball machine. A fully-equipped pro shop complements a full range of lessons and programs for children and adults. Other courts at Linger Longer Communities include two hard courts at Plantation, two clay courts at Great Waters and four hard courts at the new Reynolds Landing amenity center, currently under construction.

“I’m happy to be a part of the Linger Longer tennis program,” Morning said. “I am enjoying the southern hospitality from everyone around. I am also honored to be a part of something that continues to grow.”

Morning, a native of Williamsburg, Virginia, is a graduate of Scotland’s Robert Gordon University as well as Old Dominion University in Norfolk, Virginia, where he obtained his degree in international studies and relations.
