Greensboro, Ga. (May 16, 2007) – The University of Georgia once again walked away with the No. 1 spot in the recent Linger Longer Invitational golf tournament, hosted at Reynolds Plantation on May 12 – 14. It was their second win at the two-year-old competition.

All-American Chris Kirk led the UGA team to a final-round 12-under-par 276, winning with a total 29-under-par 835. It was the fourth-best number in the school's history. Other teammates included Brendan Todd, Brian Harman, Hudson Swafford and Adam Mitchell.

Georgia State University and Florida State University followed second and third, respectively, in the 54-stroke play tournament.
